A PARTY DOWN FOR STATE OCCASIONS.

fashionable center like Philadelphia made her change her mind, and arrangements were made by which Josie Lockwood's gone to school an—An' I was 'fraid 't you might like her best when Josie's away. An' I wanted to ask you to pick out 's'mother girl."

Duncan chuckled silently. "Tracey," he said presently, "it strikes me you must be in love with Angle."

The boy gulped. "I—am."

"And I think she's rather partial to you."

"Do you, really, Mr. Duncan?"

"I do. Do you want to marry her?"

"Gee! I can't hardly wait! Only," Tracey continued, disconsolate, "it ain't no use, really. She's so purty an' swell an' old man Tutthill's so rich—not like the Lockwoods, but rich all the same—an' I'm only the son of the livery stable man an' fat an'—all that—an'—"

"Nonsense, Tracey!" Nat interrupted firmly. "If you really want her and will follow the rules I give you it's a cinch."

"I guarantee it, Tracey. Listen to me," And Duncan expounded Kegown for state occasions.

Josie kept her promise and came home for Christmas. She was reticent as to her impressions of the New York seminary, but seemed extremely glad to be home, notwithstanding the fact that Nat had apparently contracted no disturbing alliances with the other belles of our village. And Roland remained true—a reliable second string to Josie's bow. Roland was working hard at the bank, with an application that earned Blinky Lockwood's regard and outsiders' approbation, and his Christmas trinket proved the sensation of the season.

In passing, I should mention that Betty didn't come home once throughout the entire school term. The Christmas and New Year holidays she spent with a girl friend at her Philadelphia home.

Meanwhile life in our town simmered gently. Duncan continued to make progress. For one thing I recall that he put in his soda with whipped cream, which helped a lot to hold the trade regained in the summer from Sothern & Lee.

Occasionally Duncan visited some of the towns in the county to develop the mail order business which he had successfully inaugurated and which increased materially the profits of the firm.

There was a certain night along toward the 1st of January when trade was dull, as it always is after Christmas, and there was nobody in the store save Nat and Tracey. Each had their task, whatever it may have been, and each was busied with it, but of the two Tracey seemed the more restless.

"Duncan broke a long silence in the store. 'What's the trouble, Tracey?' Tracey pulled up with a stare of confusion. 'I—I dunno, Mr. Duncan; I was thinkin'." I guess."

"Anything gone wrong?"

"Not yet."

"Somebody been demonstrating that your doll's stuffed with sawdust, Tracey?"

"No-o; but, say, Mr. Duncan"—Tracey's confusion became terrific.

"Say on, Mr. Tanner."

Tracey struggled perceptibly. The words when they came were blurted. "Ah, I was only thinkin' 'bout Angle."

"Do you ever think about anything else?"

"No," Tracey admitted honestly, "not much. But I was wonderin'—"

"Well?"

"Are you stuck on Angle, Mr. Duncan?" demanded Tracey desperately.

"Great snakes! I hope not!"

The boy sighed. "Thank you, Mr.

Duncan. I was only worryin' because you and Angle is sligh together in the choir now Josie Lockwood's gone to school an—An' I was 'fraid 't you might like her best when Josie's away. An' I wanted to ask you to pick out 's'mother girl."

Duncan chuckled silently. "Tracey," he said presently, "it strikes me you must be in love with Angle."

The boy gulped. "I—am."

"And I think she's rather partial to you."

longer, at length, adjusting them to Tracey's circumstances, of course, and throughout maintained the gravity of a grave image. "You try and you'll see if I'm not right," he concluded.

"Gosh, I b'lieve you are!" Tracey cried admiringly. "I'm just goin' to see how it works."

"Do it your favor me, Tracey."

"Say, Miss-Nat, you've treated me somethin' lummox."

"Your mistake, Tracey. I haven't treated anybody since I've been here. I'm on the wagon."

"I mean just now, when we was talkin' 'bout me an' Angle. I'd-I'd like to help you the same way if I could."

"You would?" Duncan eyed the boy apprehensively, wondering what was coming.

"Yes, indeed, I would. An' p'rhaps I kin tell you somethin' that will."

"Speak, I beg."

"You—er—you're tryin' to court Josie Lockwood, ain't you?"

"Oh," said Nat. "So that was it! That's a secret, Tracey," he averred.

"All right. Only if you are she's your'n."

"Just how do you figure that out?"

"Oh, I kin tell. She was in here to-night with Roland."

"Tonight?"

BALDHEADED MEN

Ignorance of the Hair Causes Much Baldness Among Men.

Early plety doesn't cause baldness, neither does any kind of plety. Some baldheaded men console themselves with the idea that baldness is caused by a superabundance of gray brain matter, and would have the world believe that a baldhead is a sign of great intellect.

Such, however, is not the case. Ninety-nine times in one hundred, baldness is caused by dandruff germs which dig down deep into the roots of the hair, destroy its vitality and cause it to fall out.

All this may come gradually and take time but as an up-to-date humorist would say "what's time to a dandruff germ?"

If you have dandruff, the little invisible, persistent devils called dandruff germs are at work. Destroy them at once, or sooner or later they will cause your hair to fall out and you will be compelled to take your place in the baldheaded class.

In France baldheads are few because men understand how to care for the hair. Parisian Sage is a hair grower and invigorator that is guaranteed by Wells & Haymaker Co., to grow hair if the root is not already destroyed, to eradicate dandruff stop itching scalp and falling hair, or money back.

50 cents for a large bottle at Wells & Haymaker Co., and druggists everywhere on money back plan.

NOTICE.

SEALED PROPOSALS.

Public Printing, Binding and Stationery

STATE OF WEST VIRGINIA:

Office of Commissioners of Public Printing.

Charleston, November 15, 1910.

Notice is hereby given that sealed proposals will be received by the Commissioners of Public Printing at the Auditor's Office in the Capitol Annex in the City of Charleston, West Virginia, from this time until SATURDAY, the 17th day of December, 1910, at 12 o'clock, noon, of said day.

for the execution of the state Printing, State Binding, and for supplying the state with Stationery and Printing Paper for the two years beginning on the second Wednesday in January, 1911, and ending on the second Wednesday in January, 1913.

Each Proposal must be accompanied by bond executed according to law, by the bidder with at least two good and sufficient securities residing in this state, in the penal sum of ten thousand dollars ($10,000.00) for all State Printing; and the penal sum of five thousand dollars ($5,000.00) for furnishing Printing Paper and Stationery and the penal sum of two thousand dollars ($2,000.00) for all State Binding, conditioned on the faithful performance of said contracts. No bid unaccompanied by such bonds will be entertained by the Commissioners of Public Printing.

Estimates of the work to be done or materials to be furnished together with blank forms for proposals, bonds, etc., will be furnished upon application by Stuart F. Reed, the Superintendent of Public Printing.

The Commissioners are required to receive separate bids for the Printing, Binding, and Printing Paper, including Stationery.

The Contract shall be awarded to the lowest responsible bidder for the same, respectively, unless there is a reasonable bidder for the whole whose bid is less than the aggregate amount of the lowest separate bids, in which case the contract shall be awarded to the lowest bidder for the whole.

All proposals must be made upon the printed blanks furnished by the Superintendent of Public Printing, and said Commissioners reserve the right to reject any and all bids.

By order of the Commissioners of Public Printing.

Given under our hands this 15th day of November, 1910.

J. S. DARST, Auditor.

J. L. LONG, Treasurer.

M. P. SHAWKEY, Supl. Schools

Commissioners of Public Printing for the State of West Virginia.
